Part 10 Transitional matters for Private Security Amendment Act 2026

86 Definitions

In this Part:

amended, in relation to a specified provision, means the provision of this Act as in force on and after the commencement.

amending Act means the Private Security Amendment Act 2026.

commencement means the day on which section 3 of the amending Act commences.

former, in relation to a specified provision or Part of this Act, means the provision or Part as in force from time to time before the commencement.

87 Continuation of licences: licensee holding both crowd controller's licence and security officer's licence

(1) This section applies to a licensee if, immediately before the commencement, the licensee held both of the following licences:

(a) a licence that permitted the licensee to carry out the functions of a crowd controller, as that term was defined immediately before the commencement;

(b) a licence that permitted the licensee to carry out the functions of a security officer, as that term was defined immediately before the commencement.

(2) On the commencement:

(a) the licences held by the licensee (the old licences) are taken together to be a security officer licence (the new licence) issued under this Act as amended by the amending Act; and

(b) subject to this Act, the new licence is valid until:

(i) if the old licences were due to expire, under section 23, on the same day – that day; or

(ii) if the old licences were due to expire on different days – the day on which the last of the old licences to expire was due to expire.

Example for subsection (2)

An individual who held both a security officer's licence and a crowd controller's licence immediately before the commencement is, when the amending Act commences, taken to hold a security officer licence.

(3) If, before the commencement, the licensee had applied to renew both of the old licences, but the applications had not been determined before the commencement:

(a) the applications are taken together to be an application to renew the new licence; and

(b) former section 24 applies in relation to the application and new section 24 does not apply in relation to the application.

(4) If, before the commencement, the licensee had applied to renew one of the old licences but the application had not been determined, and the operation of subsection (2)(b)(ii) results in:

(a) the new licence expiring within 3 months after the commencement:

(i) the application is taken to be an application to renew the new licence; and

(ii) former section 24 applies in relation to the application and new section 24 does not apply in relation to the application; or

(b) the new licence expiring 3 months or more after the commencement:

(i) the application lapses; and

(ii) the Director must refund the prescribed fee for the application paid in accordance with section 24(2)(b).

88 Continuation of licence: licensee holding either crowd controller's licence or security officer's licence

(1) This section applies to a licensee if, immediately before the commencement, the licensee held one of the following (an old licence):

(a) a licence that permitted the licensee to carry out the functions of a crowd controller, as that term was defined immediately before the commencement;

(b) a licence that permitted the licensee to carry out the functions of a security officer, as that term was defined immediately before the commencement.

(2) Subject to subsection (3) and to this Act, from the commencement, a licence mentioned in subsection (1) is taken to be a licence granted under this Act as in force after the commencement, subject to the following:

(a) the licensee is only permitted to carry out the functions that were permitted to be carried out under the old licence;

(b) the licence may not be renewed except under subsection (3);

(c) the licence ceases to be valid:

(i) if the licence is due to expire on or before the day that is 12 months after the commencement – 12 months after the date on which it was due to expire; or

(ii) otherwise – on the date on which it is due to expire.

Examples for subsection (2)

1 The amending Act commences on 1 July 2027. Immediately before that day, a person holds a crowd controller's licence under this Act that is due to expire on 1 September 2027. When the amending Act commences, the person holds a licence that permits the licensee to perform the same functions as prior to the commencement, but the period of the licence, under subsection (2)(c)(i), is automatically extended for a further 12 months and will expire on 1 September 2028.

2 The amending Act commences on 1 July 2027. Immediately before that day, a person holds a security officer's licence under this Act that is due to expire on 1 September 2028. When the amending Act commences, the person continues to hold a licence that permits the licensee to perform the same functions as prior to the commencement. The licence will, subject to the Act, expire on 1 September 2028.

(3) If, before the commencement, the licensee had applied to renew the old licence but the application had not been determined before the commencement, former section 24 applies in relation to the application and new section 24 does not apply in relation to the application.

89 Continuation of licence: licensee holding security firm licence

(1) This section applies to a licensee that, immediately before the commencement, held a licence to perform the functions of a security firm, as that term was defined immediately before the commencement.

(2) On the commencement, the licence is taken to be a security business licence issued under this Act as amended by the amending Act that is, subject to this Act, valid until the day on which it is due to expire.

(3) If, before the commencement, the licensee had applied to renew the licence but the application had not been determined before the commencement, former section 24 applies in relation to the application and new section 24 does not apply in relation to the application.

90 Applications made but not decided before commencement

(1) An application for a security officer's licence or a crowd controller's licence that was made but not determined before the commencement is to be considered and determined under former Part 3.

(2) If the application is granted, section 87 or 88 applies in relation to the licence as if the licence was in force immediately before the commencement.

91 Show cause notices

(1) This section applies to a licensee if:

(a) the Director issued a show cause notice to the licensee under former section 27(1); and
