Regulations under the Utilities Commission Act 2000

1 Citation

These Regulations may be cited as the Utilities Commission Regulations 2001.

2 Authorisation to make code about ring fencing

- (1) The Utilities Commission is authorised to make a code relating to ring fencing in a regulated industry.
- (2) In subregulation (1):

ring fencing means the separate operation of related or associated businesses of a licensed entity in a regulated industry.

2A Authorisation to make code about retail supply in electricity supply industry

- (1) The Utilities Commission is authorised to make a code relating to retail supply in the electricity supply industry.
- (2) Without limiting subregulation (1), the code may deal with one or more of the following:
 - (a) transfer of customers between retailers;
 - (b) credit support arrangements;
 - (c) billing;
 - (d) metrology;
 - (e) service order arrangements;
 - (f) retailer of last resort arrangements;
 - (g) dispute resolution.

2B Authorisation to make code about standards of service

- (1) The Utilities Commission is authorised to make a code relating to standards of service by licensed entities in the electricity supply industry.
- (2) Without limiting subregulation (1), a code may deal with the following:
 - (a) standards of service by licensed entities in the electricity supply industry;
 - (b) performance measures for standards of service by licensed entities in the electricity supply industry;
 - (c) payments to certain customers if specified standards of service are not met.

3 Authorisation to make rules and determinations

- (1) The Utilities Commission is authorised to make rules relating to the provision of ancillary services in the electricity supply industry.
- (2) The Utilities Commission is authorised to make determinations relating to the prices for providing ancillary services in the electricity supply industry.
- (3) In this regulation:

ancillary services include:

 - (a) reserve capacity;
 - (b) frequency support;
 - (c) load following services; and
 - (d) services necessary for the efficient and reliable operation of a power system.
