3 Division of offences

- (1) Offences are of 3 kinds, namely, crimes, simple offences and regulatory offences.

Note for subsection (1)

Generally, an offence is a crime if the penalty for the offence is imprisonment for a period of more than 2 years – see section 38E of the Interpretation Act.

- (2) A person charged with a crime cannot, unless otherwise stated, be prosecuted or found guilty except upon indictment.

of his intention.

- (3) It is immaterial that, by reason of circumstances not known to the offender, it is impossible in fact to commit the offence.
- (4) The same facts may constitute one offence and an attempt to commit another offence.

Division 2 Presumptions

5 Innocence

Every accused person is presumed to be innocent until the contrary is proved.

7 Intoxication

- (1) In all cases where intoxication may be regarded for the purposes of determining whether a person is guilty or not guilty of an offence:
 - (a) it shall be presumed that, until the contrary is proved, the intoxication was voluntary; and
 - (b) unless the intoxication was involuntary, it shall be presumed evidentially that the accused person foresaw the natural and probable consequences of his conduct.
- (2) It is hereby declared that the amendment effected by subsection (1) applies to and in relation to all proceedings before a court in respect of an offence committed on or after 1 January 1984, in which the question of guilt has not been determined before that court before the commencement of this Act, as if the amendment came into operation on 1 January 1984.

8 Offences committed in prosecution of common purpose

- (1) When 2 or more persons form a common intention to prosecute an unlawful purpose in conjunction with one another and in the prosecution of such purpose an offence is committed by one or some of them, the other or each of the others is presumed to have aided or procured the perpetrator or perpetrators of the offence to commit the offence unless he proves he did not foresee the commission of that offence was a possible consequence of prosecuting that unlawful purpose.
- (2) Two or more persons form a common intention to prosecute an unlawful purpose in conjunction with one another when they agree to engage in or concur in engaging in any conduct that, if engaged in, would involve them or some or one of them in the commission of an offence or a tort.

9 Mode of execution different from that counselled

When a person counsels another to commit an offence and an offence is committed by the person to whom the counsel is given and because of it, but the offence committed is different from the one counselled or is committed in a different way from the way counselled, the person giving such counsel is presumed to have counselled the offence committed unless he proves the conduct giving rise to the offence committed was not foreseen by him as a possible consequence of giving such counsel.

10 Death or serious harm caused in the course of violence of 2 or more persons

When a person dies or is found to be dead or to have suffered serious harm after 2 or more persons have used violence against him or his person and it is proved that the death or serious harm was caused as the result or in the course of that violence, but the evidence of the prosecution does not establish by whom it was caused, each of them is presumed either to have caused or aided the other or others to cause the death or serious harm until the contrary is proved if the violence used by him was of such a nature that it was likely to have caused, in the case of death, death or serious harm or, in the case of serious harm, serious harm.

11 Power to impose domestic discipline

A person who may justifiably apply force to a child for the purposes of discipline, management or control may delegate that power either expressly or by implication to another person who has the custody or control of the child either temporarily or permanently and, where that other person is a school teacher of the child, it shall be presumed that the power has been delegated unless it is expressly withheld.

Division 3 Parties to offences

- (c) every person who counsels or procures another to commit the offence.
- (2) A person who counsels or procures another to commit an offence may be charged with committing the offence or counselling or procuring its commission.

- (1) A person who receives or assists another who, to his knowledge, has committed an offence in order to enable him to escape prosecution becomes an accessory after the fact to the offence.
- (2) A wife may be an accessory after the fact to an offence committed by her husband.

Division 4 Application of criminal law

14 Effect of changes in law

- (1) A person cannot be found guilty of an offence unless the conduct impugned would have constituted an offence under the law in force when it occurred; nor unless that conduct also constitutes an offence under the law in force when he is proceeded against for that conduct.
- (2) If the law in force when the conduct impugned occurred differs from that in force at the time of the finding of guilt, the offender cannot be punished to any greater extent than was authorized by the former law or to any greater extent than is authorized by the latter law.

15 Application of criminal laws

If a person is guilty of the conduct proscribed by any offence it is immaterial that that conduct or some part of it did not occur in the Territory if that conduct affected or was intended to affect the peace, order or good government of the Territory.

16 Offences counselled or procured in the Territory to be committed out of the Territory

- (1) Any person who, in the Territory, counsels or procures another to commit, at a place not in the Territory, an offence of such a nature that the conduct giving rise to it is also an offence in the Territory and that offence is in fact committed, is guilty of an offence of the same kind and, subject to subsection (2), is liable to the same punishment as if he had counselled or procured that other person to engage in that conduct in the Territory and he had done so.

- (2) A person found guilty under subsection (1) is not liable to greater punishment than that to which the person who actually committed the offence was liable under the law in force in the place where the offence was committed.
- (3) A prosecution cannot be instituted under subsection (1) except at the request of the government of the state having jurisdiction in the place where the offence so counselled or procured was committed.

Division 5 Effect of previous finding of guilt or acquittal

17 Definitions

In this Division:

similar offence means an offence in which the conduct therein impugned is substantially the same as or includes the conduct impugned in the offence to which it is said to be similar.

18 Defence of previous finding of guilt or acquittal

Subject to sections 19 and 20, it is a defence to a charge of any offence to show that the accused person has already been found guilty or acquitted of:

- (a) the same offence;
- (b) a similar offence;
- (c) an offence of which he might be found guilty upon the trial of the offence charged; or
- (d) an offence upon the trial of which he could have been found guilty of the offence charged.

19 Limitation of defence in relation to certain crimes

Where the act or omission is such that it causes death or serious harm to another, the accused person may be found guilty of the offence of which he is guilty by reason of such death or serious harm notwithstanding that he has already been found guilty of some other offence constituted by the act or omission.

20 Finding of guilt or acquittal of regulatory offence no defence

Subject to section 21, a finding of guilt for or an acquittal of a regulatory offence shall not be a defence to a charge of a crime or a simple offence.

21 Stay of vexatious, &c., proceedings

Notwithstanding anything contained in this Division, a judge or a justice of the peace, in any proper case, may order that proceedings brought before him be stayed on the ground that they are vexatious or harassing and thereupon they shall be stayed.

Part II Criminal responsibility

Division 1 General matters

22 Exclusion of regulatory offences

Except for sections 26(1)(c) and (d) (and sections 23 and 24 to the extent necessary to give effect to section 26(1)(c) and (d)), 30(3) and 38, this Part does not apply to regulatory offences.

23 Effect of authorization, justification or excuse

A person is not guilty of an offence if any act, omission or event constituting that offence done, made or caused by him was authorized, justified or excused.

24 Authorization, justification or excuse of event

Any event resulting from an act or omission that was authorized, justified or excused is, accordingly, authorized, justified or excused.

25 Lawful act, &c., to be authorized or justified and authorized or justified act to be lawful

An act, omission or event expressly declared to be lawful is either authorized or justified and an act, omission or event expressly declared to be authorized or justified is lawful.

Division 2 Authorization

26 Execution of law, &c.

- (1) An act, omission or event is authorized if it is done, made or caused:
 - (a) in the exercise of a right granted or recognized by law;
 - (b) in execution of the law or in obedience to, or in conformity with, the law;
 - (c) in obedience to the order of a competent authority whom the person doing, making or causing it is bound by law to obey, unless the order is manifestly unlawful; or
 - (d) subject to subsection (3), pursuant to authority, permission or licence lawfully granted.
- (2) Whether an order is or is not manifestly unlawful is a question of law.
- (3) A person cannot authorize or permit another to kill him or, except in the case of medical treatment, to cause him serious harm.

Division 3 Justification

27 Circumstances in which force not being such force as is likely to cause death or serious harm is justified

In the circumstances following, the application of force is justified provided it is not unnecessary force and it is not intended and is not such as is likely to cause death or serious harm:

- (a) to lawfully execute any sentence, process or warrant or make any arrest;
- (b) to prevent a person who is being or who has been lawfully arrested from escaping or from being rescued;
- (c) to prevent the continuance of a breach of the peace or a renewal of it and to detain any person who is committing or about to join in or to renew the breach of the peace for such time as may be reasonably necessary in order to give him into the custody of a police officer;
- (d) to suppress a riot;
- (e) to prevent the commission of an offence;

- (k) in the case of a person who is entitled by law to the possession of moveable property, or a person acting by his authority, and who attempts to take possession of it from a person who neither claims right to it nor acts by the authority of a person who claims right to it and the person in possession resists him, to obtain possession of the property, provided he does not intentionally do him harm;
- (p) in the case of a parent or guardian of a child, or a person in the place of such parent or guardian, to discipline, manage or control such child;
- (pa) to prevent a person reasonably believed to be attempting to, or about to, kill himself, from killing himself;
- (q) in the case of the person in command of a ship on a voyage or an aircraft on a flight, or a person acting by his authority, to maintain good order and discipline on board the ship or aircraft;
- (r) to assist a person to do any of the things aforesaid.

28 Circumstances in which force causing death or serious harm is justified

In the circumstances following, the application of force that will or is likely to kill or cause serious harm is justified provided it is not unnecessary force:

- (a) in the case of a police officer when lawfully attempting to arrest or to assist with the arrest of a person whom he reasonably believes to be a person who:
 - (i) unless arrested, may commit an offence punishable with imprisonment for life;
 - (ii) has taken flight to avoid arrest; and
 - (iv) the person has been called upon by the police officer or another police officer to surrender and has been allowed a reasonable opportunity to do so;
- (b) in the case of a police officer when attempting to prevent the escape or the rescue of a person from lawful custody whom he reasonably believes to be a person who, unless kept in lawful custody, may commit an offence punishable with imprisonment for life and provided the police officer first calls upon the person attempting to escape or to rescue to surrender or to desist and allows him a reasonable opportunity to do so;

- (c) in the case of a prison officer when attempting to prevent the escape or the rescue of a person from lawful custody and provided the prison officer first calls upon the person attempting to escape or to rescue to surrender or to desist and allows him a reasonable opportunity to do so;
- (d) in the case of a police officer when attempting to suppress a riot if all of the following apply:
 - (i) the officer has orally ordered the immediate dispersal of persons who are riotously assembled (the rioters) or has attempted to give that order;
 - (ii) the officer believes on reasonable grounds that, because of the rioters' conduct:
 - (A) someone other than a rioter is in danger of death or serious harm; or
 - (B) an offence in relation to property punishable with imprisonment for life is being committed;
 - (iii) if it is practicable to do so – the officer attempts to stop the conduct and gives the rioters a reasonable opportunity to stop the conduct;
- (e) in the case of a police officer, or a person acting by his authority, when attempting to prevent a person committing or continuing the commission of an offence of such a nature as to cause the person using the force reasonable apprehension that death or serious harm to another will result;
- (g) in the case of a person in command of a ship or an aircraft, or a person acting by his authority or any person on board such ship or aircraft, when attempting to prevent a person committing or continuing the commission of an offence of such a nature as to cause the person using the force reasonable apprehension that death or serious harm will result.

29 Defensive conduct justified

- (1) Defensive conduct is justified and a person who does, makes or causes an act, omission or event by engaging in defensive conduct is not criminally responsible for the act, omission or event.

- (2) A person engages in defensive conduct only if:
- (a) the person believes that the conduct is necessary:
 - (i) to defend himself or herself or another person;
 - (ii) to prevent or terminate the unlawful deprivation of his or her or another person's personal liberty;
 - (iii) to protect property in the person's possession or control from unlawful appropriation, destruction, damage or interference;
 - (iv) to prevent trespass to land or premises occupied by or in the control of the person;
 - (v) to remove a trespasser from land or premises occupied by or in the control of the person; or
 - (vi) to assist a person in possession or control of property to protect that property or to assist a person occupying or in control of land or premises to prevent trespass to or remove a trespasser from that land or premises; and
 - (b) the conduct is a reasonable response in the circumstances as the person reasonably perceives them.
- (3) A person does not engage in defensive conduct if the conduct involves the use of force intended to cause death or serious harm:
- (a) to protect property; or
 - (b) to prevent trespass or remove a trespasser.
- (4) For the purposes of subsections (2) and (3), a person trespasses if he or she enters or remains on land or premises:
- (a) with intent to commit an offence; or
 - (b) in circumstances where the entry on to or remaining on the land or premises constitutes an offence.
- (5) A person does not engage in defensive conduct if:
- (a) he or she is responding to the lawful conduct of another person; and
 - (b) he or she knows that the other person's conduct is lawful.

- (6) Nothing in subsection (5) is to be taken to prevent a person from engaging in defensive conduct in circumstances where the other person's conduct is lawful merely because he or she would be excused from criminal responsibility for that conduct.
- (7) Sections 31 and 32 do not apply in relation to defensive conduct.

Division 4 Excuse

30 Ignorance of law: bona fide claim of right, &c.

- (1) Subject to subsections (2) and (3), ignorance of the law does not afford an excuse unless knowledge of the law by the offender is expressly declared to be an element of the offence.
- (2) A person is excused from criminal responsibility for an act or omission done or made with respect to, or for an event caused to, property in the exercise of an honest claim of right and without intention to defraud.
- (3) A person is excused from criminal responsibility for an act, omission or event done, made or caused in contravention of a statutory instrument if, at the time of doing, making or causing it, the statutory instrument was not known to him and had not been published or otherwise reasonably made available or known to the public or those persons likely to be affected by it.
- (4) For the purposes of subsection (3), published means published in the Gazette or notified in the Gazette as having been made.

31 Unwilled act etc. and accident

- (1) A person is excused from criminal responsibility for an act, omission or event unless it was intended or foreseen by him as a possible consequence of his conduct.
- (2) A person who does not intend a particular act, omission or event, but foresees it as a possible consequence of his conduct, and that particular act, omission or event occurs, is excused from criminal responsibility for it if, in all the circumstances, including the chance of it occurring and its nature, an ordinary person similarly circumstanced and having such foresight would have proceeded with that conduct.
- (3) This section does not apply to a crime defined by section 155.

32 Mistake of fact

A person who does, makes or causes an act, omission or event under an honest and reasonable, but mistaken, belief in the existence of any state of things is not criminally responsible for it to any greater extent than if the real state of things had been such as he believed to exist.

33 Sudden and extraordinary emergency

Subject to the express provisions of this Code relating to self-defence and duress, a person is excused from criminal responsibility for an act or omission done or made under such circumstances of sudden and extraordinary emergency that an ordinary person similarly circumstanced would have acted in the same or a similar way; and he is excused from criminal responsibility for an event resulting from such act or omission.

38 Immature age

- (1) A person under the age of 10 years is excused from criminal responsibility for an act, omission or event.
- (2) A person under the age of 14 years is excused from criminal responsibility for an act, omission or event unless it is proved that at the time of doing the act, making the omission or causing the event he had capacity to know that he ought not to do the act, make the omission or cause the event.

39 Judicial officers

Except as expressly provided by this Code, a judicial officer is excused from criminal responsibility for anything done or omitted to be done by him in the exercise of his judicial functions although the act done is in excess of his judicial authority or although he is bound to do the act omitted to be done.

40 Duress

- (1) A person is excused from criminal responsibility for an act, omission or event if it was done, made or caused because of duress provided:
 - (a) he believed the person making the threat was in a position to execute the threat;
 - (b) he believed there was no other way he could ensure the threat was not executed;

- (c) an ordinary person similarly circumstanced would have acted in the same or a similar way; and
 - (d) he reported the threat to a police officer as soon as was reasonably practicable, unless the nature of the threat was such that an ordinary person similarly circumstanced would not have reported that threat.
- (2) The excuse referred to in subsection (1) does not extend to an act, omission or event that would constitute a crime of which serious harm or an intention to cause such harm is an element; nor to a person who has rendered himself liable to have such a threat made to him by having entered into an association or conspiracy that has as any of its objects the doing of a wrongful act.

42 Liability of husband or wife for offences committed by either with respect to the other's property

When a husband and wife are living together, each of them is excused from criminal responsibility for an act or omission done or made with respect to, or for an event caused to, the property of the other, except in the case of an offence where an intention to injure or defraud some other person is an element and except when leaving or deserting, or when about to leave or desert, the other.

43 Damage to property

A person is excused from criminal responsibility for damage caused to property by the use of such force as was reasonably necessary for the purpose of defending or protecting himself, or any other person, or any property, from injury that he believed, on reasonable grounds, was imminent, provided an ordinary person similarly circumstanced would have acted in the same or a similar way.

Part IIAA Criminal responsibility for Schedule 1 offences and declared offences

Division 1 Preliminary matters

43AA Application of Part

- (1) This Part applies only in relation to Schedule 1 offences, and declared offences, committed on or after the commencement of the Part.

- (2) The following provisions of Part I do not apply in relation to Schedule 1 offences, or declared offences, committed on or after the commencement of this Part:
- (a) section 1 (Definitions), definitions of act, duress, knowingly and involuntary intoxication;

 - (c) section 278 (Punishment of attempts to commit offences);
 - (d) section 280 (Attempts to procure commission of criminal offences);
 - (e) section 282 (Conspiracy to commit crimes).

Note for section 43AA

A term defined in this Part has the meaning given to it for the purposes of this Part and the Schedule 1 provisions. For example, the meaning given to the term "conduct" in section 43AD(1) applies for the purposes of the partial defence of provocation to a charge of murder (a Schedule 1 offence) – see the signpost definition of the term in section 1.

Division 2 Elements of offence

Subdivision 1 General matters

43AB Elements

- (1) An offence consists of physical elements and fault elements.
- (2) However, the law that creates the offence may provide that there is no fault element for one or more physical elements.
- (3) The law that creates the offence may provide different fault elements for different physical elements.

43AC Establishing guilt of offences

A person must not be found guilty of committing an offence unless the following is proved:

- (a) the existence of the physical elements of the offence that are, under the law creating the offence, relevant to establishing guilt;
- (b) for each of the physical elements for which a fault element is required, one of the fault elements for the physical element.

Subdivision 2 Physical elements

43AD Conduct and engaging in conduct

- (1) Conduct is an act, an omission to perform an act or a state of affairs.
- (2) Engage in conduct is to:
 - (a) perform an act; or
 - (b) omit to perform an act.

43AE Physical elements

A physical element of an offence may be:

- (a) conduct; or
- (b) a result of conduct; or
- (c) a circumstance in which conduct, or a result of conduct, happens.

43AF Voluntariness

- (1) Conduct can only be a physical element if it is voluntary.
- (2) Conduct is only voluntary if it is a product of the will of the person whose conduct it is.

Examples of conduct that is not voluntary:

1. A spasm, convulsion or other unwillful bodily movement.
 2. An act performed during sleep or unconsciousness.
 3. An act performed during impaired consciousness depriving the person of the will to act.
- (3) An omission to perform an act is only voluntary if the act omitted is an act the person can perform.
 - (4) If the conduct constituting an offence consists only of a state of affairs, the state of affairs is only voluntary if it is one over which the person is capable of exercising control.
 - (5) Evidence of self-induced intoxication cannot be considered in determining whether conduct is voluntary.

43AG Omissions

- (1) An omission to perform an act can only be a physical element if the law creating the offence:
 - (a) makes it a physical element; or
 - (b) impliedly provides that the offence is committed by an omission to perform an act that, by law, there is a duty to perform.
- (2) However, an omission to perform an act can be a physical element of an offence against a Schedule 1 provision if it is a person's omission to perform any of the duties referred to in Part VI, Division 1.
- (3) The fault element for an omission to perform an act referred to in subsection (2) that causes, or that gives rise to danger of, death or harm is, if not otherwise specified in the Schedule 1 provision, the same as the fault element for the result of the omission.

Note for section 43AG(3):

In the absence of subsection (3), the fault element for the conduct consisting of an omission to perform an act would be intention under the default provision in section 43AM(1). Generally in relation to Schedule 1 offences, the fault element for acts that cause etc. death or harm is not specified but the fault element for the result concerned is specified as either intention, recklessness or negligence.

Subdivision 3 Fault elements

43AH Fault elements

- (1) A fault element for a particular physical element may be intention, knowledge, recklessness or negligence.
- (2) Subsection (1) does not prevent the law that creates an offence from specifying other fault elements for a physical element of the offence.

43AI Intention

- (1) A person has intention in relation to conduct if the person means to engage in that conduct.
- (2) A person has intention in relation to a result if the person means to bring it about or is aware that it will happen in the ordinary course of events.
- (3) A person has intention in relation to a circumstance if the person believes that it exists or will exist.

43AJ Knowledge

A person has knowledge of a result or circumstance if the person is aware that it exists or will exist in the ordinary course of events.

43AK Recklessness

- (1) A person is reckless in relation to a result if:
 - (a) the person is aware of a substantial risk that the result will happen; and
 - (b) having regard to the circumstances known to the person, it is unjustifiable to take the risk.
- (2) A person is reckless in relation to a circumstance if:
 - (a) the person is aware of a substantial risk that the circumstance exists or will exist; and
 - (b) having regard to the circumstances known to the person, it is unjustifiable to take the risk.
- (3) The question whether taking a risk is unjustifiable is one of fact.
- (4) If recklessness is a fault element for a physical element of an offence, proof of intention, knowledge or recklessness satisfies the fault element.

43AL Negligence

A person is negligent in relation to a physical element of an offence if the person's conduct involves:

- (a) such a great falling short of the standard of care that a reasonable person would exercise in the circumstances; and
- (b) such a high risk that the physical element exists or will exist, that the conduct merits criminal punishment for the offence.

43AM Offences that do not provide fault elements

- (1) If a law that creates an offence does not provide a fault element for a physical element that consists only of conduct, intention is the fault element for the physical element.
- (2) If a law that creates an offence does not provide a fault element for a physical element that consists of a result or circumstance, recklessness is the fault element for the physical element.

Note for subsection (2):

Under section 43AK(4), recklessness can be established by proving intention, knowledge or recklessness.

Subdivision 4 Cases where fault elements are not required

43AN Strict liability

- (1) If a law that creates an offence provides that an offence is an offence of strict liability:
 - (a) there are no fault elements for any of the physical elements of the offence; and
 - (b) the defence of mistake of fact under section 43AX is available.
- (2) If a law that creates an offence provides that strict liability applies to a particular physical element of an offence:
 - (a) there are no fault elements for that physical element; and
 - (b) the defence of mistake of fact under section 43AX is available in relation to that physical element.
- (3) The existence of strict liability does not make any other defence unavailable.

43AO Absolute liability

- (1) If a law that creates an offence provides that an offence is an offence of absolute liability:
 - (a) there are no fault elements for any of the physical elements of the offence; and
 - (b) the defence of mistake of fact under section 43AX is unavailable.
- (2) If a law that creates an offence provides that absolute liability applies to a particular physical element of an offence:
 - (a) there are no fault elements for that physical element; and
 - (b) the defence of mistake of fact under section 43AX is unavailable in relation to that physical element.
- (3) The existence of absolute liability does not make any other defence unavailable.

Division 3 Circumstances in which there is no criminal responsibility

Subdivision 1 Lack of capacity of children

43AP Children under 10

A child under 10 years old is not criminally responsible for an offence.

43AQ Children over 10 but under 14

- (1) A child aged 10 years or more but under 14 years old can only be criminally responsible for an offence if the child knows that his or her conduct is wrong.
- (2) The question whether a child knows that his or her conduct is wrong is one of fact.
- (3) The burden of proving that a child knows that his or her conduct is wrong is on the prosecution.

Subdivision 2 Intoxication

43AR Self-induced intoxication

- (1) Intoxication is self-induced unless it came about:
 - (a) involuntarily; or
 - (b) as a result of fraud, sudden or extraordinary emergency, accident, reasonable mistake, duress or force; or
 - (c) from the use of a drug for which a prescription is required and that was used in accordance with the directions of the medical practitioner or dentist who prescribed it; or
 - (d) from the use of a drug for which no prescription is required and that was used for a purpose, and in accordance with the dosage level, recommended by the manufacturer.
- (2) However, intoxication is self-induced if a person using a drug as referred to in subsection (1)(c) or (d) knew, or had reason to believe, when the person took the drug that the drug would significantly impair the person's judgment or control.

43AS Intoxication – offences involving basic intent

- (1) Evidence of self-induced intoxication cannot be considered in determining whether a fault element of basic intent existed.

Note for subsection (1):

A fault element of intention in relation to a result or circumstance is not a fault element of basic intent.

- (2) This section does not prevent evidence of self-induced intoxication being taken into consideration in determining whether conduct was accidental.
- (3) This section does not prevent evidence of self-induced intoxication being taken into consideration in determining whether a person had a mistaken belief about facts if the person had considered whether or not the facts existed.
- (4) A person may be regarded as having considered whether or not facts existed if:
 - (a) he or she had considered, on a previous occasion, whether those facts existed in circumstances surrounding that occasion; and

- (b) he or she honestly and reasonably believed that the circumstances surrounding the present occasion were the same, or substantially the same, as those surrounding the previous occasion.

43AT Intoxication – negligence as fault element

- (1) If negligence is a fault element for a particular physical element of an offence, in determining whether that fault element existed in relation to a person who is intoxicated, regard must be had to the standard of a reasonable person who is not intoxicated.
- (2) However, if intoxication is not self-induced, regard must be had to the standard of a reasonable person intoxicated to the same extent as the person concerned.

43AU Intoxication – relevance to defences

- (1) If any part of a defence is based on actual knowledge or belief, evidence of intoxication may be considered in determining whether that knowledge or belief existed.
- (2) However, if:
- (a) each physical element of an offence has a fault element of basic intent; and
- (b) any part of a defence is based on actual knowledge or belief, evidence of self-induced intoxication cannot be considered in determining whether that knowledge or belief existed.
- (3) If any part of a defence is based on reasonable belief, in determining whether that reasonable belief existed, regard must be had to the standard of a reasonable person who is not intoxicated.
- (4) If a person's intoxication is not self-induced, in determining whether any part of a defence based on reasonable belief exists, regard must be had to the standard of a reasonable person intoxicated to the same extent as the person concerned.

43AV Involuntary intoxication

A person is not criminally responsible for an offence if the person's conduct constituting the offence was as a result of intoxication that was not self-induced.

Subdivision 3 Mistake or ignorance

43AW Mistake or ignorance of fact – fault elements other than negligence

- (1) A person is not criminally responsible for an offence that has a physical element for which there is a fault element other than negligence if:
 - (a) at the time of the conduct constituting the physical element, the person is under a mistaken belief about, or is ignorant of, facts; and
 - (b) the existence of that mistaken belief or ignorance negates any fault element applying to that physical element.
- (2) In determining whether a person was under a mistaken belief about, or was ignorant of, facts, the tribunal of fact may consider whether the mistaken belief or ignorance was reasonable in the circumstances.

43AX Mistake of fact – strict liability

- (1) A person is not criminally responsible for an offence that has a physical element for which there is no fault element if:
 - (a) at or before the time of the conduct constituting the physical element, the person considered whether or not facts existed and was under a mistaken but reasonable belief about those facts; and
 - (b) had those facts existed, the conduct would not have constituted an offence.
- (2) A person may be regarded as having considered whether or not facts existed if:
 - (a) he or she had considered, on a previous occasion, whether those facts existed in the circumstances surrounding that occasion; and
 - (b) he or she honestly and reasonably believed that the circumstances surrounding the present occasion were the same, or substantially the same, as those surrounding the previous occasion.

Note for section 43AX:

Section 43AO(2) prevents this section applying in situations of absolute liability.

43AY Mistake or ignorance of law

- (1) A person can be criminally responsible for an offence even if, at the time of the conduct constituting the offence, the person is mistaken about, or ignorant of, the existence or content of a law that creates the offence.
- (2) However, the person is not criminally responsible for the offence if:
 - (a) the law creating the offence expressly or impliedly provides that a person is not criminally responsible for the offence in those circumstances; or
 - (b) the person's ignorance or mistake negates a fault element applying to a physical element of the offence.
- (3) In addition, if the law creating the offence is a statutory instrument, the person is not criminally responsible for the offence if, at the time of the conduct constituting the offence, the statutory instrument:
 - (a) was not known to the person; and
 - (b) had not been published in the Gazette or otherwise been made available to persons likely to be affected by it in such a way that the person would have become aware of its contents by exercising due diligence.

43AZ Claim of right

- (1) A person is not criminally responsible for an offence that has a physical element relating to property if:
 - (a) at the time of the conduct constituting the offence, the person is under a mistaken belief about a proprietary or possessory right; and
 - (b) the existence of that right would negate a fault element for any physical element of the offence.
- (2) A person is not criminally responsible for any other offence arising necessarily out of the exercise of the proprietary or possessory right that the person mistakenly believes to exist.
- (3) This section does not negate criminal responsibility for an offence relating to the use of force against a person.

Subdivision 4 External factors

43BA Intervening conduct or event

A person is not criminally responsible for an offence that has a physical element to which absolute liability or strict liability applies if:

- (a) the physical element is brought about by another person over whom the person has no control or by a non-human act or event over which the person has no control; and
- (b) the person could not reasonably be expected to guard against the bringing about of that physical element.

43BB Duress

- (1) A person is not criminally responsible for an offence if the person carries out the conduct constituting the offence under duress.
- (2) A person carries out conduct under duress only if the person reasonably believes that:
 - (a) a threat has been made that will be carried out unless an offence is committed; and
 - (b) there is no reasonable way that the threat can be rendered ineffective; and
 - (c) the conduct is a reasonable response to the threat.
- (3) However, the person does not carry out conduct under duress if the threat is made by or on behalf of a person with whom the person is voluntarily associating to carry out conduct of the kind actually carried out.

43BC Sudden or extraordinary emergency

- (1) A person is not criminally responsible for an offence if the person carries out the conduct constituting the offence in response to circumstances of sudden or extraordinary emergency.
- (2) This section applies only if the person carrying out the conduct reasonably believes that:
 - (a) circumstances of sudden or extraordinary emergency exist; and
 - (b) committing the offence is the only reasonable way to deal with the emergency; and

- (c) the conduct is a reasonable response to the emergency.

43BD Self-defence

- (1) A person is not criminally responsible for an offence if the person carries out the conduct constituting the offence in self-defence.
- (2) A person carries out conduct in self-defence only if:
- (a) the person believes the conduct is necessary:
- (i) to defend himself or herself or another person; or
 - (ii) to prevent or terminate the unlawful imprisonment of himself or herself or another person; or
 - (iii) to protect property from unlawful appropriation, destruction, damage or interference; or
 - (iv) to prevent criminal trespass to any land or premises; or
 - (v) to remove from any land or premises a person who is committing criminal trespass; and
- (b) the conduct is a reasonable response in the circumstances as he or she perceives them.
- (3) However, the person does not carry out conduct in self-defence if:
- (a) the person uses force that involves the intentional infliction of death or serious harm:
- (i) to protect property; or
 - (ii) to prevent criminal trespass; or
 - (iii) to remove a person who is committing criminal trespass; or
- (b) the person is responding to lawful conduct that the person knew was lawful.
- (4) Conduct is not lawful for subsection (3)(b) merely because the person carrying it out is not criminally responsible for it.

43BE Lawful authority

A person is not criminally responsible for an offence if the conduct constituting the offence is justified or excused by or under a law.

Division 4 Extensions of criminal responsibility

43BF Attempt

- (1) A person who attempts to commit an offence is guilty of the offence of attempting to commit that offence and, unless otherwise provided, is punishable as if the offence attempted had been committed.
- (2) For the person to be guilty, the person's conduct must be more than merely preparatory to the commission of the offence.
- (3) The question whether conduct is more than merely preparatory to the commission of the offence is one of fact.
- (4) For the offence of attempting to commit an offence, intention and knowledge are fault elements in relation to each physical element of the offence attempted.

Note for subsection (4):

Under section 43AC, only one of the fault elements of intention or knowledge would need to be established in relation to each physical element of the offence attempted.

- (5) Subsection (4) has effect subject to subsection (9).
- (6) A person may be found guilty even if:
 - (a) committing the offence attempted is impossible; or
 - (b) the person actually committed the offence attempted.
- (7) A person who is found guilty of attempting to commit an offence cannot be subsequently charged with the completed offence.
- (8) Any defences, procedures, limitations or qualifying provisions that apply to an offence apply also to the offence of attempting to commit that offence.
- (9) Any special liability provisions that apply to an offence apply also to the offence of attempting to commit that offence.
- (10) It is not an offence to attempt to commit an offence against section 43BG or 43BJ.

43BG Complicity and common purpose

- (1) A person who aids, abets, counsels or procures the commission of an offence by another person is taken to have committed that offence and is punishable accordingly.

- (2) For the person to be guilty:
 - (a) the person's conduct must have in fact aided, abetted, counselled or procured the commission of the offence by the other person; and
 - (b) the offence must have been committed by the other person.
- (3) For the person to be guilty, the person must have intended that:
 - (a) the person's conduct would aid, abet, counsel or procure the commission of any offence (including its fault elements) of the type the other person committed; or
 - (b) the person's conduct would aid, abet, counsel or procure the commission of an offence and have been reckless about the commission of the offence (including its fault elements) that the other person in fact committed.
- (4) Subsection (3) has effect subject to subsection (7).
- (5) A person cannot be found guilty of aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of an offence if, before the offence was committed, the person:
 - (a) terminated his or her involvement; and
 - (b) took all reasonable steps to prevent the commission of the offence.
- (6) A person may be found guilty of aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of an offence even if the principal offender has not been prosecuted or has not been found guilty.
- (7) Any special liability provisions that apply to an offence apply also to the offence of aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of that offence.

43BH Innocent agency

- (1) A person is taken to have committed an offence if:
 - (a) the person procures someone else to engage in conduct that (whether or not together with conduct engaged in by the person) makes up the physical elements of the offence consisting of conduct; and
 - (b) any physical element of the offence consisting of a circumstance exists; and

- (c) any physical element of the offence consisting of a result of the conduct happens; and
 - (d) when the person procured the other person to engage in the conduct, the person had the fault element applying to each physical element of the offence.
- (2) To remove any doubt, if a person is taken to have committed an offence because of this section, the offence is punishable as if, apart from the operation of this section, the person had committed the offence.

43BI Incitement

- (1) A person who urges the commission of an offence is guilty of the offence of incitement.
- (2) For the person to be guilty, the person must intend that the offence incited be committed.
- (3) Subsection (2) has effect subject to subsection (6).
- (4) A person may be found guilty even if committing the offence incited is impossible.
- (5) Any defences, procedures, limitations or qualifying provisions that apply to an offence apply also to the offence of incitement in relation to that offence.
- (6) Any special liability provisions that apply to an offence apply also to the offence of incitement in relation to that offence.
- (7) It is not an offence to incite the commission of an offence against section 43BF, this section or section 43BJ.

Penalty:

- (a) if the offence incited is punishable by life imprisonment – imprisonment for 10 years; or
- (b) if the offence incited is punishable by imprisonment for 14 years or more, but is not punishable by life imprisonment – imprisonment for 7 years; or
- (c) if the offence incited is punishable by imprisonment for 10 years or more, but is not punishable by imprisonment for 14 years or more – imprisonment for 5 years; or

- (d) if the offence is otherwise punishable by imprisonment – imprisonment for 3 years or for the maximum term of imprisonment for the offence incited, whichever is the lesser; or
- (e) if the offence incited is not punishable by imprisonment – the number of penalty units equal to the maximum number of penalty units applicable to the offence incited.

43BJ Conspiracy

- (1) A person who conspires with another person to commit an offence punishable by imprisonment for more than 12 months, or by a fine of 200 penalty units or more, is guilty of the offence of conspiracy to commit that offence and, unless otherwise provided, is punishable as if the offence to which the conspiracy relates had been committed.
- (2) For the person to be guilty:
 - (a) the person must have entered into an agreement with one or more other persons; and
 - (b) the person and at least one other party to the agreement must have intended that an offence would be committed pursuant to the agreement; and
 - (c) the person or at least one other party to the agreement must have committed an overt act pursuant to the agreement.
- (3) Subsection (2) has effect subject to subsection (9).
- (4) A person may be found guilty of conspiracy to commit an offence even if:
 - (a) committing the offence is impossible; or
 - (b) the only other party to the agreement is a body corporate; or
 - (c) each other party to the agreement is at least one of the following:
 - (i) a person who is not criminally responsible;
 - (ii) a person for whose benefit or protection the offence exists; or
 - (d) subject to subsection (5)(a), all other parties to the agreement have been acquitted of the conspiracy.

- (5) A person cannot be found guilty of conspiracy to commit an offence if:
 - (a) all other parties to the agreement have been acquitted of the conspiracy and a finding of guilt would be inconsistent with their acquittal; or
 - (b) he or she is a person for whose benefit or protection the offence exists.
- (6) A person cannot be found guilty of conspiracy to commit an offence if, before the commission of an overt act pursuant to the agreement, the person:
 - (a) withdrew from the agreement; and
 - (b) took all reasonable steps to prevent the commission of the offence.
- (7) A court may dismiss a charge of conspiracy if it thinks that the interests of justice require it to do so.
- (8) Any defences, procedures, limitations or qualifying provisions that apply to an offence apply also to the offence of conspiracy to commit that offence.
- (9) Any special liability provisions that apply to an offence apply also to the offence of conspiracy to commit that offence.
- (10) Proceedings for an offence of conspiracy must not be commenced without the consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions.
- (11) However, a person may be arrested for, charged with, or remanded in custody or on bail in connection with, an offence of conspiracy before the necessary consent has been given.

43BJA References in Acts to offences

- (1) A reference in an Act to an offence against an Act (including this Code) includes a reference to an offence against section 43BF, 43BI or 43BJ that relates to such an offence.
- (2) A reference in an Act (including this Code) to a particular offence includes a reference to an offence against section 43BF, 43BI or 43BJ that relates to that offence.

- (3) Subsection (1) or (2) does not apply if an Act is expressly or impliedly to the contrary effect.

Note for section 43BJA

Sections 43BG and 43BH operate as extensions of principal offences and accordingly are not mentioned in this section.

Division 5 Corporate criminal responsibility

43BK General principles

- (1) This Code applies to bodies corporate as well as natural persons.
- (2) This Code applies to bodies corporate in the same way as it applies to natural persons, but subject to the changes made by this Part and any other changes necessary because criminal liability is being imposed on a body corporate rather than a natural person.
- (3) A body corporate may be found guilty of any offence, including one punishable by imprisonment.

43BL Physical elements

If a physical element of an offence is committed by an employee, agent or officer of a body corporate acting within the actual or apparent scope of his or her employment, or within his or her actual or apparent authority, the physical element must also be attributed to the body corporate.

43BM Fault elements other than negligence

- (1) If intention, knowledge or recklessness is a fault element in relation to a physical element of an offence, that fault element must be attributed to a body corporate that expressly, tacitly or impliedly authorised or permitted the commission of the offence.
- (2) The ways in which authorisation or permission may be established include:
- (a) proving that the body corporate's board of directors intentionally, knowingly or recklessly engaged in the relevant conduct, or expressly, tacitly or impliedly authorised or permitted the commission of the offence; and
- (b) proving that a high managerial agent of the body corporate intentionally, knowingly or recklessly engaged in the relevant conduct, or expressly, tacitly or impliedly authorised or permitted the commission of the offence; and

- (c) proving that a corporate culture existed within the body corporate that directed, encouraged, tolerated or led to non-compliance with the relevant provision; and
 - (d) proving that the body corporate failed to create and maintain a corporate culture that required compliance with the relevant provision.
- (3) Subsection (2)(b) does not apply if the body corporate proves that it exercised due diligence to prevent the conduct or the authorisation or permission.
- (4) Factors relevant to the application of subsection (2)(c) and (d) include:
- (a) whether authority to commit an offence of the same or a similar character had been given by a high managerial agent of the body corporate; and
 - (b) whether the employee, agent or officer of the body corporate who committed the offence believed on reasonable grounds, or entertained a reasonable expectation, that a high managerial agent of the body corporate would have authorised or permitted the commission of the offence.
- (5) If recklessness is not a fault element in relation to a physical element of an offence, subsection (2) does not enable the fault element to be proved by proving that the board of directors, or a high managerial agent, of the body corporate recklessly engaged in the conduct or recklessly authorised or permitted the commission of the offence.
- (6) In this section:

board of directors means the body (by whatever name called) exercising the executive authority of the body corporate.

corporate culture, for a body corporate, means an attitude, policy, rule, course of conduct or practice existing within the body corporate generally or in the part of the body corporate in which the relevant conduct happens.

high managerial agent, of a body corporate, means an employee, agent or officer of the body corporate with duties of such responsibility that his or her conduct may fairly be assumed to represent the body corporate's policy.

43BN Negligence

- (1) The test of negligence for a body corporate is that set out in section 43AL.
- (2) Subsection (3) applies if:
 - (a) negligence is a fault element in relation to a physical element of an offence; and
 - (b) no individual employee, agent or officer of the body corporate has that fault element.
- (3) The fault element of negligence may exist on the part of the body corporate if its conduct is negligent when viewed as a whole (that is, by aggregating the conduct of any number of its employees, agents or officers).
- (4) Negligence may be evidenced by the fact that the prohibited conduct was substantially attributable to:
 - (a) inadequate corporate management, control or supervision of the conduct of one or more of its employees, agents or officers; or
 - (b) failure to provide adequate systems for conveying relevant information to relevant persons in the body corporate.

43BO Mistake of fact – strict liability

- (1) A body corporate can only rely on section 43AX in relation to conduct that would, apart from this section, constitute an offence on its part if:
 - (a) the employee, agent or officer of the body corporate who engaged in the conduct was under a mistaken but reasonable belief about facts that, had they existed, would have meant that the conduct would not have constituted an offence; and
 - (b) the body corporate proves that it exercised due diligence to prevent the conduct.
- (2) A failure to exercise due diligence may be evidenced by the fact that the prohibited conduct was substantially attributable to:
 - (a) inadequate corporate management, control or supervision of the conduct of one or more of its employees, agents or officers; or

- (b) failure to provide adequate systems for conveying relevant information to relevant persons in the body corporate.

43BP Intervening conduct or event

A body corporate cannot rely on section 43BA in relation to a physical element of an offence brought about by another person if the other person is an employee, agent or officer of the body corporate.

Division 6 Proof of criminal responsibility

43BQ Legal burden of proof

The legal burden, in relation to a matter, is the burden of proving the existence of the matter.

43BR Legal burden of proof – prosecution

- (1) The prosecution bears a legal burden of proving every element of an offence relevant to the guilt of the person charged.
- (2) The prosecution also bears a legal burden of disproving any matter in relation to which the defendant has discharged an evidential burden of proof.

43BS Standard of proof – prosecution

- (1) A legal burden of proof on the prosecution must be discharged beyond reasonable doubt.
- (2) Subsection (1) does not apply if a law specifies a different standard of proof.

43BT Evidential burden of proof

The evidential burden, in relation to a matter, means the burden of adducing or pointing to evidence that suggests a reasonable possibility that the matter exists or does not exist.

43BU Evidential burden of proof – defence

- (1) Subject to section 43BV, a burden of proof that a law imposes on a defendant is an evidential burden only.
- (2) A defendant who wishes to deny criminal responsibility by relying on a provision of Division 3 or Part IIA bears an evidential burden in relation to that matter.

- (3) A defendant who wishes to rely on any exception, exemption, excuse, qualification or justification provided by the law creating an offence (whether or not it accompanies the description of the offence) bears an evidential burden in relation to the matter.
- (4) The defendant no longer bears the evidential burden in relation to a matter if evidence sufficient to discharge the burden is adduced by the prosecution or by the court.
- (5) The question whether an evidential burden has been discharged is a question of law.

43BV Legal burden of proof – defence

A burden of proof that a law imposes on the defendant is a legal burden only if the law expressly:

- (a) specifies that the burden of proof in relation to the matter in question is a legal burden; or
- (b) requires the defendant to prove the matter; or
- (c) creates a presumption that the matter exists unless the contrary is proved.

43BW Standard of proof – defence

A legal burden of proof on the defendant must be discharged on the balance of probabilities.

43BX Use of averments

A law that allows the prosecution to make an averment does not allow the prosecution to aver any fault element of an offence.

Division 7 Geographical application

43BY Application and effect of Division

- (1) This Division extends the application of a law of the Territory that creates an offence beyond the territorial limits of the Territory (and Australia) if the required geographical nexus exists for the offence.

- (2) If a law that creates an offence provides for any geographical consideration for an offence, the provision prevails over any inconsistent provision of this Division.

Examples for subsection (2):

1. A law creating an offence may provide that the place of commission of the offence is (explicitly or by necessary implication) an element of the offence.
2. A law creating an offence may provide for its application outside the Territory and exclude (explicitly or by necessary implication) the requirement for a geographical nexus between the Territory and an element of the offence.

43BZ Interpretation for Division

- (1) For this Division, the required geographical nexus is the geographical nexus referred to in section 43CA(2).
- (2) For this Division, the place where an offence is committed is the place where any of the physical elements of the offence happen.
- (3) For this Division, the place where an offence has an effect includes:
 - (a) any place whose peace, welfare or good government is threatened by the offence; and
 - (b) any place where the offence would have an effect (or would cause such a threat) if the offence were committed.

43CA Extension of offences if required geographical nexus exists

- (1) An offence against a law is committed if:
 - (a) disregarding any geographical considerations, all elements of the offence exist; and
 - (b) a geographical nexus exists between the Territory and the offence.
- (2) A geographical nexus exists between the Territory and an offence if:
 - (a) the offence is committed completely or partly in the Territory, whether or not the offence has any effect in the Territory; or
 - (b) the offence is committed completely outside the Territory (whether or not outside Australia) but has an effect in the Territory.

43CB Geographical application – double criminality

- (1) This Division applies to an offence committed partly in the Territory and partly in a place outside the Territory (whether or not outside Australia), even if it is not also an offence in that place.
- (2) This Division applies to an offence committed completely outside the Territory (whether or not outside Australia) only if:
 - (a) it is also an offence in the place where it is committed; or
 - (b) it is not also an offence in that place, but the tribunal of fact is satisfied the offence is such a threat to the peace, welfare or good government of the Territory that it justifies criminal punishment in the Territory.

43CC Geographical application – procedure

- (1) The required geographical nexus is conclusively presumed for an offence unless rebutted under subsection (2) or (4).
- (2) If a person charged with an offence disputes the existence of the required geographical nexus for the offence, the following provisions apply:
 - (a) the court must proceed with the trial of the offence in the usual way;
 - (b) if, at the end of the trial, the tribunal of fact is satisfied on the balance of probabilities that the required geographical nexus does not exist, it must make or return a finding to that effect, and the court must dismiss the charge;
 - (c) however, if, disregarding any geographical considerations, the tribunal of fact would find the person not guilty of the offence (other than because of mental impairment), it must make or return a verdict of not guilty;
 - (d) also, if, disregarding any geographical considerations, the tribunal of fact would find the person not guilty of the offence only because of mental impairment, it must make or return a verdict that the person is not guilty of the offence because of mental impairment.
- (3) This section applies to any alternative verdict available by law to the tribunal of fact in relation to another offence with which the person was not charged.

- (4) The tribunal of fact may make or return a finding of guilty in relation to the other offence (referred to in subsection (3)) unless satisfied on the balance of probabilities the required geographical nexus does not exist for the other offence.
- (5) If the issue of whether the required geographical nexus exists for an offence is raised before the trial, the issue must be reserved for consideration at the trial.

43CD Geographical application – suspicion etc. that offence committed

- (1) This section applies if a person may exercise a power or perform a function under a law on reasonable suspicion or belief that an offence has been committed.
- (2) The person may exercise the power or perform the function if the person suspects or believes, as the case requires, on reasonable grounds that all the elements required for the offence exist.
- (3) Subsection (2) applies whether or not the person suspects or believes, or has any ground to suspect or believe, that the required geographical nexus exists for the offence.

In Divisions 6 and 7:

supervised person means the person the supervision of whom is the subject of a hearing referred to in those Divisions.

Division 2 Mental impairment

43C Defence of mental impairment

- (1) The defence of mental impairment is established if the court finds that a person charged with an offence was, at the time of carrying out the conduct constituting the offence, suffering from a mental impairment and as a consequence of that impairment:
 - (a) he or she did not know the nature and quality of the conduct;
 - (b) he or she did not know that the conduct was wrong (that is he or she could not reason with a moderate degree of sense and composure about whether the conduct, as perceived by reasonable people, was wrong); or
 - (c) he or she was not able to control his or her actions.
- (2) If the defence of mental impairment is established, the person must be found not guilty because of mental impairment.

43D Presumption of competence and burden of proof

- (1) A person is presumed not to have been suffering a mental impairment unless the contrary is proved.
- (2) The party raising the defence of mental impairment bears the onus of rebutting the presumption specified in subsection (1).

43E Standard of proof

The question of whether a person was suffering from a mental impairment having the effect specified in section 43C(1)(a), (b) or (c) is a question of fact to be determined by a jury on the balance of probabilities.

43F Who may raise defence and when may defence be raised and considered?

- (1) The defence of mental impairment may be raised:
 - (a) by the defence at any time during the trial;
 - (b) by the court on application by the prosecution; or
 - (c) by the court on its own initiative.
- (2) If the defence of mental impairment is raised during the trial, the issues relating to establishing the defence are to be separately tried.
- (3) If the defence of mental impairment arises during a committal proceeding, the question is to be reserved for consideration by the court during the trial of the accused person.
- (4) A committal proceeding is not to be discontinued and the accused person discharged only because the defence of mental impairment has been raised during the committal proceeding.

43G Hearing of question of mental impairment by court etc.

- (1) If the defence of mental impairment is raised during the trial, the court:
 - (a) must hear the evidence and representations as to the accused person's mental competence produced by the parties; and
 - (b) on application by the defence or the prosecution or on its own initiative – may require the accused person to be examined by a psychiatrist or other appropriate expert and the results of the examination to be reported to the court.
- (2) After the evidence has concluded and the parties have addressed the jury, the Judge must direct the jury to consider:
 - (a) the question of mental impairment and determine whether on the balance of probabilities the defence of mental impairment is established; and

- (b) whether the evidence establishes the elements of the offence the accused person is charged with, or an offence that the accused person may be found alternatively guilty of, beyond reasonable doubt, and to determine whether the accused person:

- (c) is not guilty of the offence charged;
 - (d) is not guilty of the offence charged because of his or her mental impairment; or
 - (e) committed the offence charged or an offence that he or she may be found alternatively guilty of.
- (3) In directing the jury, the Judge must explain to the jury the findings that it may make and the consequences of the findings in law and otherwise.

43H Plea of not guilty by reason of mental impairment may be accepted

If the parties to a prosecution of an offence agree, the court may, at any time during the trial of the offence, accept a plea and record a finding of not guilty of the offence because of mental impairment.

43I Effect of findings under this Division

- (1) If an accused person is found not guilty of the offence charged, the court must discharge the accused person.
- (2) If an accused person is found not guilty because of mental impairment, the court must:
 - (a) declare that the accused person is liable to supervision under Division 5; or
 - (b) order that the accused person be released unconditionally.
- (3) If the court makes a declaration under subsection (2)(a), the court may also make the interim orders it considers just, including one or more of the following orders:
 - (a) an order for the bail of the accused person;
 - (b) an order that the accused person be remanded in custody (whether in a prison or other appropriate place);
 - (c) an order for the examination of the accused person by a psychiatrist or other appropriate expert;

- (d) if the court makes an order referred to in paragraph (c) – an order that a report of the results of the examination be produced before the court.
- (4) If an accused person is found guilty of the offence charged or an offence that he or she may be found guilty alternatively of, the court must record the jury's verdict and proceed to deal with the conviction and sentencing of the accused person in the normal way.

Division 3 Unfitness to stand trial

43J When is a person unfit to stand trial?

- (1) A person charged with an offence is unfit to stand trial if the person is:
- (a) unable to understand the nature of the charge against him or her;
 - (b) unable to plead to the charge and to exercise the right of challenge;
 - (c) unable to understand the nature of the trial (that is that a trial is an inquiry as to whether the person committed the offence);
 - (d) unable to follow the course of the proceedings;
 - (e) unable to understand the substantial effect of any evidence that may be given in support of the prosecution; or
 - (f) unable to give instructions to his or her legal counsel.
- (2) A person is not unfit to stand trial only because he or she suffers from memory loss.

43K Presumption of fitness to stand trial and burden of proof

- (1) A person is presumed to be fit to stand trial.
- (2) The presumption of fitness to stand trial is rebutted only if it is established by an investigation under this Division that the person is unfit to stand trial.
- (3) If the question of a person's fitness to stand trial is raised by the prosecution or the defence, the party raising the question bears the onus of rebutting the presumption of fitness.

- (4) If the question of a person's fitness to stand trial is raised by the court, the prosecution has carriage of the matter and no party bears the onus of rebutting the presumption of fitness.

43L Standard of proof

The question of whether a person is fit to stand trial is a question of fact to be determined by a jury on the balance of probabilities.

43M Committal proceedings

- (1) If the question of an accused person's fitness to stand trial arises at a committal proceeding:
- (a) the accused person is not to be discharged only because the question has been raised during the committal proceeding;
 - (b) the committal proceeding is to be completed in accordance with the Justices Act (whether or not sections 106 and 110 of that Act are complied with); and
 - (c) if the accused person is committed for trial – the question is to be reserved for consideration by the court during the trial of the accused person.
- (2) In the event of an inconsistency between Part V of the Justices Act and this section, this section prevails to the extent of the inconsistency.

43N Institution of investigation of fitness of accused person

- (1) The question of whether an accused person is fit to stand trial may be raised in the court by the prosecution or the defence, or by the court, at any time after the presentation of the indictment.
- (2) The court must order an investigation into the fitness of the accused person to stand trial if:
- (a) the question of fitness was reserved during the committal proceedings; or
 - (b) the Judge is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds on which to question the accused person's fitness to stand trial.
- (3) If the court makes an order for an investigation into the fitness of the accused person after the trial has commenced, the court may adjourn or discontinue the trial and conduct an investigation.
- (4) The question of the fitness of an accused person to stand trial may be raised more than once in the same proceeding.

43O Court may make interim orders

Before or at the time the court makes an order under section 43N(2) for an investigation, the court may also make the interim orders it considers just, including one or more of the following orders:

- (a) an order for the bail of the accused person;
- (b) an order that the accused person be remanded in custody (whether in a prison or other appropriate place);
- (c) an order that any reports relating to the fitness of the accused person to stand trial held by the prosecution or defence be produced before the court;
- (d) an order that the accused person undergo an examination by a psychiatrist or other appropriate expert and that a report of the results of the examination be given to the court.

43P Procedure for conduct of investigation

- (1) At the commencement of the investigation, the Judge must explain to the jury:
 - (a) the reason for the investigation;
 - (b) the findings that may be made and the consequences of those findings in law and otherwise; and
 - (c) the standard of proof required to establish whether the accused person is fit for trial.
- (2) The court must hear the relevant evidence and submissions relating to the question of fitness of the accused person put to the court by the prosecution and the defence.
- (3) If the Judge considers that it is in the interests of justice to do so, the court may:
 - (a) call evidence on its own initiative;
 - (b) require the accused person to undergo an examination by a psychiatrist or other appropriate expert; and
 - (c) require the results of an examination referred to in paragraph (b) to be produced before the court.

If the jury finds that the accused is fit to stand trial, the trial of the accused person for committing the offence he or she is charged with is to proceed in the normal way.

43R Procedure if accused person found unfit to stand trial after conduct of investigation

- (1) If the jury finds that the accused person is unfit to stand trial, the Judge must determine whether there is a reasonable prospect that the accused person might, within 12 months, regain the necessary capacity to stand trial.
- (2) In making his or her determination under subsection (1), the Judge:
 - (a) may call evidence on his or her own initiative; and
 - (b) must refer to all relevant evidence and make the determination on the balance of probabilities.
- (3) If the Judge determines that it is not likely that the accused will become fit to stand trial within 12 months, the court must hold a special hearing within 3 months after the date of the Judge's determination.
- (4) If the Judge determines that there is a reasonable prospect that the accused person might become fit for trial within 12 months, the Judge must adjourn the matter of the fitness of the accused person to be tried for the period, not exceeding 12 months, within which the Judge considers that the accused person might become fit.
- (5) If the matter is adjourned under subsection (4), the Judge may make the interim orders he or she considers just, including one or more of the following orders:
 - (a) an order for the bail of the accused person;
 - (b) an order that the accused person is remanded in custody (whether in a prison or another appropriate place) during the adjournment.
- (6) The Judge must not make an order under subsection (5) remanding the accused person in custody in a prison unless the Judge is satisfied that there is no practicable alternative given the circumstances of the accused person.

- (7) On the expiry of the adjournment, the accused person is presumed to be fit to stand trial unless a party or the court raises a real and substantive question as to the accused person's fitness to stand trial.
- (8) Where the accused person is presumed to be fit, the trial of the accused person for committing the offence he or she is charged with is to proceed in the normal way.
- (9) Where a real and substantial question as to the accused person's fitness has been raised in accordance with subsection (7), the court must:
 - (a) if the adjournment was for less than 12 months – adjourn the matter for a further period that, when added together with the first period of adjournment, does not exceed 12 months; or
 - (b) hold a special hearing within 3 months after the date the adjournment expires.
- (10) If the Judge further adjourns the matter under subsection (9)(a), he or she may vary an order made under subsection (5) in respect of the accused person or make any other orders referred to in subsection (5) as he considers just (and, in doing so, must comply with subsection (6)).
- (11) On the expiry of an adjournment under subsection (9)(a), subsections (7), (8), (9) and (10) apply with the necessary changes as if a reference to an adjournment in those subsections were a reference to a further adjournment under subsection (9)(a).
- (12) A matter may be adjourned more than once under subsection (9)(a) but the total period of adjournment of a matter under this section is not to exceed 12 months.

43S Abridgement of adjournment under section 43R

Where the court has made an order under section 43R(4) or (9)(a) adjourning the matter of the fitness of an accused person to be tried, the accused person or the Director of Public Prosecutions may at any time during the adjournment apply to the court for either of the following orders:

- (a) if the accused person or the Director of Public Prosecutions considers that the accused person has become fit to stand trial – an order that the trial of the accused person for committing the offence he or she is charged with is to proceed in the normal way;

- (b) if the accused person or the Director of Public Prosecutions considers that the accused person will not become fit to stand trial by the end of the 12 month period referred to in section 43R – an order to hold a special hearing within 3 months after the date the order is made.

43T Finding that accused person unfit to stand trial by agreement

- (1) If, at any time before or during the trial of an offence, the parties to the prosecution of the offence agree that the accused person is unfit to stand trial, the court may dispense with an investigation into the fitness of the accused person to stand trial and record a finding that the accused person is unfit to stand trial.
- (2) If the court records a finding under subsection (1), section 43R applies in relation to the accused person the subject of the finding as if a reference to an accused person in section 43R were a reference to an accused person referred to in subsection (1).

43U Extension of period for holding special hearing

- (1) The Court may, on application or on its own initiative, extend, by not more than 3 months, the period within which a special hearing is to be held under section 43R (including as applied by section 43T) or 43S.
- (2) There is no limit to the number of extensions that the court may make under subsection (1).

Division 4 Special hearings

43V Purpose of special hearings

- (1) A special hearing is to determine, on the evidence available, whether an accused person who is found not fit to stand trial:
 - (a) is not guilty of the offence he or she is charged with;
 - (b) is not guilty of the offence he or she is charged with because of his or her mental impairment; or
 - (c) committed the offence he or she is charged with or an offence available as an alternative to the offence charged.
- (2) To make a finding under subsection (1)(c), the jury must be satisfied beyond reasonable doubt, on the evidence available, that the accused person committed the offence charged or an offence available as an alternative to the offence.

43W Procedure for conduct of special hearing

- (1) A special hearing is to be conducted as nearly as possible as if it were a criminal trial.

 - (b) the meaning of being unfit to stand trial;

 - (d) the standard of proof required for the findings.

43X Findings at special hearing

- (1) If the jury at a special hearing finds the accused person is not guilty of the offence, the finding is taken to be a finding of not guilty at a criminal trial and the court must discharge the accused person.
- (2) If the jury at a special hearing finds the accused person is not guilty because of mental impairment, the finding is taken to be a finding of not guilty because of mental impairment at a criminal trial and the court must:
 - (a) declare that the accused person is liable to supervision under Division 5; or

- (b) order that the accused person be released unconditionally.
- (3) If the jury at a special hearing finds, on the evidence available, that the accused person committed the offence charged or an offence available as an alternative to the offence charged, the finding:
 - (a) is taken to be a qualified finding of guilt and does not constitute a basis in law for a finding of guilt of the offence to which the finding relates;
 - (b) constitutes a bar to further prosecution in respect to the same conduct and circumstances; and
 - (c) is subject to appeal in the same manner as if it were a finding of guilt at a criminal trial, and the court must declare that the accused person is liable to supervision under Division 5 or discharge the accused person unconditionally.

43Y Interim orders pending supervision

- (a) the conduct causing death was the result of the defendant's loss of self-control induced by conduct of the deceased towards or affecting the defendant; and
 - (b) the conduct of the deceased was such as could have induced an ordinary person to have so far lost self-control as to have formed an intent to kill or cause serious harm to the deceased.
- (3) Grossly insulting words or gestures towards or affecting the defendant can be conduct of a kind that induces the defendant's loss of self-control.
- (4) A defence of provocation may arise regardless of whether the conduct of the deceased occurred immediately before the conduct causing death or at an earlier time.
- (5) However, conduct of the deceased consisting of a non-violent sexual advance or advances towards the defendant:
- (a) is not, by itself, a sufficient basis for a defence of provocation; but
 - (b) may be taken into account together with other conduct of the deceased in deciding whether the defence has been established.
- (6) For deciding whether the conduct causing death occurred under provocation, there is no rule of law that provocation is negated if:
- (a) there was not a reasonable proportion between the conduct causing death and the conduct of the deceased that induced the conduct causing death; or
 - (b) the conduct causing death did not occur suddenly; or

 - (c) the defendant should not, given the extent of the impairment, be convicted of murder.
- (2) Expert and other evidence may be admissible to enable or assist the tribunal of fact to determine the extent of the defendant's impairment at the time of the conduct causing death.
- (3) If the defendant's impairment is attributable in part to an underlying condition and in part to self-induced intoxication, then, for deciding whether a defence of diminished responsibility has been established, the impairment must be ignored so far as it was attributable to self-induced intoxication.
- (4) The burden of establishing a defence of diminished responsibility is a legal burden and lies on the defence.
- (5) A defendant who would, apart from this section, be liable to be convicted of murder must be convicted of manslaughter instead.

- (2) Where, on the finding of guilt of the appellant, the jury have found a special verdict and the Court considers that a wrong conclusion has been arrived at by the court of trial on the effect of that verdict, the Court may, instead of allowing the appeal, order such conclusion to be recorded as appears to the Court to be in law required by the verdict and pass such sentence, whether more or less severe, in substitution for the sentence passed at the trial as may be warranted in law.
