NORTHERN TERRITORY OF AUSTRALIA

As in force at 1 June 1994

DEFAMATION ACT

An Act relating to defamation

1 Short title

This Act may be cited as the Defamation Act.

2 Defamation actionable

The unlawful publication of defamatory matter (including words spoken) is an actionable wrong without proof of special damage to the person defamed.

5 Privilege of reports of legal proceedings

A fair and accurate report of proceedings publicly heard before any court exercising judicial authority shall, if published contemporaneously with the proceedings, be privileged:

Provided that nothing in this section shall authorize the publication of any blasphemous or indecent matter.

6 Privilege of reports of proceedings of public meetings and of certain bodies and persons

(1) A fair and accurate report of the proceedings of:

- (a) a public meeting;
- (b) any meeting (not being a meeting to which neither the public nor any reporter is admitted) of a municipal or community government council, school committee or board of advice, board of health, board or local authority formed or constituted under the provisions of any law in force in the Territory, or of any committee appointed by any of the above-mentioned bodies;
- (ba) a meeting of the Legislative Assembly or of a committee of that Assembly;

- (c) a meeting in the Territory of any royal commission or select committee of either House of the Parliament of the Commonwealth; or
 - (d) a meeting of shareholders in any bank or incorporated company, and the publication at the request of any Government office or department, or at the request of the Minister, the Administrator or the Commissioner of Police, of any notice or report issued by it or him for the information of the public, shall be privileged unless it is proved that the report or publication was published or made maliciously:

Provided that:

- (a) nothing in this section shall authorize the publication of any blasphemous or indecent matter;
 - (b) the protection afforded by this section shall not be available as a defence in any proceedings if it is proved that the defendant was requested to publish a reasonable letter or statement by way of contradiction or explanation of the original publication, and refused or neglected to insert the letter or statement;
 - (c) nothing in this section shall be deemed or construed to limit or abridge any privilege now by law existing, or to protect the publication of any matter not of public concern and the publication of which is not for the public benefit.
- (2) For the purposes of this section, public meeting means any meeting bona fide and lawfully held for a lawful purpose, and for the furtherance or discussion of any matter of public concern, whether the admission thereto be general or restricted.

6A Fair comment

Fair comment shall be privileged if it is published in respect of:

- (a) any of the matters with respect to which a fair and accurate report or publication is privileged under section 6;
- (b) the public conduct of any person who takes part in public affairs, or the character of any such person, so far as his character appears in that conduct;
- (c) the conduct of any public officer or public servant in the discharge of his public functions, or the character of any such person, so far as his character appears in that conduct;

- (d) the merits of any case, civil or criminal, that has been decided by any court of justice, or the conduct of any person as a judge, party, witness, counsel, solicitor, or officer of the court, in any such case, or the character of any such person, so far as his character appears in that conduct;
 - (e) any production, or the character of the author, so far as character appears by the production;
 - (g) any public entertainment or sports, or the character of any person conducting or taking part therein, so far as his character appears from the matter of the entertainment or sports, or the manner of conducting the entertainment or sports.

8 Offer of an apology

In any action for defamation, the defendant may, after notice in writing of his intention so to do, duly given to the plaintiff at the time of filing or delivering the defence in the action, give in evidence in mitigation of damages, that he made or offered an apology to the plaintiff for the defamation before the commencement of the action, or, if the action was commenced before there was an opportunity of making or offering an apology for the defamation, as soon afterwards as he had an opportunity of doing so.

9 Defence in action for defamation

- (1) In an action for defamation, the defendant may plead that the matter the subject of the action was published without actual malice and without gross negligence and that before the commencement of the action, or at the earliest opportunity afterwards, the defendant published a full apology or offered to publish such an apology in any reasonable publication to be selected by the plaintiff in the action.
- (2) The defendant upon filing such defence may pay into court a sum of money by way of amends for the injury sustained by the publication of the defamation.
- (3) To such a defence the plaintiff may reply generally denying the whole of the defence.

10 Evidence in mitigation of damages

At the trial of an action for defamation, the defendant may give in evidence in mitigation of damages that the plaintiff has already recovered or has brought an action for damages, or has received or agreed to receive compensation, in respect of a defamation to the same purport or effect as the defamation for which the action has been brought.

11 Proof of publication

- (1) On the trial of an action for defamation contained in a publication, the production of the publication containing a statement that it is printed, produced, published, distributed or authorized by or for the defendant is prima facie evidence that it was so printed, produced, published, distributed or authorized.
- (2) Evidence that a number or part of a publication appearing to be a periodical is printed, produced, published, distributed or authorized by or for the defendant is prima facie evidence that a publication appearing to be another number or part of the publication was so printed, produced, published, distributed or authorized.
