- (b) the applicant is satisfied:
  - (i) a terrorist act has occurred within the last 28 days; and
  - (ii) it is necessary to detain the person to preserve evidence in the Territory or elsewhere of, or relating to, the terrorist act, and
  - (iii) detaining the person for the period for which the person is to be detained under the order is reasonably necessary for the purpose of preserving any such evidence.

(2) A terrorist act mentioned in subsection (1)(a) must be imminent and, in any event, be expected to occur at some time in the next 14 days.

Note for section 21E

As a consequence of the operation of section 4A, it does not matter whether the location of the suspected terrorist act is in the Territory or elsewhere.

- (iv) a summary of the grounds on which the applicant considers the order should be made.

(2) To avoid doubt, subsection (1)(e)(iv) does not require information to be included in the summary if the disclosure of the information is likely to prejudice national security.

(3) The application must also fully disclose all relevant matters of which the applicant is aware, both favourable and adverse, to the making of the order.

(4) An application for a preventative detention order that is required urgently may be made by telephone, fax, email or other electronic communication.

(5) If:

- (a) a preventative detention order is made in relation to a person on the basis of assisting in preventing a terrorist act occurring within a particular period; and
- (b) the person is taken into custody under the order; and
- (c) an application is made for another preventative detention order in relation to the person on the basis of assisting in preventing a different terrorist act occurring within that period, the application must also identify the information on which the application is based that became available only after the order mentioned in paragraph (a) was made.

(6) If:

- (a) an order for a person's detention is made under a corresponding law on the basis of assisting in preventing a terrorist act occurring within a particular period; and
- (b) the person is taken into custody under that order; and
- (c) an application is made for a preventative detention order in relation to the person on the basis of assisting in preventing a different terrorist act occurring within that period,

the application must also identify the information on which the application is based that became available only after the order mentioned in paragraph (a) was made.

(7) If, when an application for a preventative detention order is made, the person in relation to whom the order is being sought is in detention under:

- (a) a preventative detention order; or
- (b) an order for the person's detention made under a corresponding law, written notice of the application must be given to the person.

21G. When preventative detention order may be made

(1) An eligible Judge may, on an application, make a preventative detention order in relation to a person only if:

- (a) satisfied on reasonable grounds:
  - (i) the person:
    - (A) will engage in a terrorist act; or
    - (B) possesses or has under the person's control (whether solely or jointly with anyone else) a thing that is connected with the preparation for, or the engagement of a person in, a terrorist act; or
    - (C) has done an act in preparation for, or planning, a terrorist act; and
  - (ii) making the order would substantially assist in preventing a terrorist act occurring; and
  - (iii) detaining the person for the period for which the person is to be detained under the order is reasonably necessary for the purpose of substantially assisting in preventing a terrorist act occurring; or
- (b) satisfied on reasonable grounds:
  - (i) a terrorist act has occurred within the last 28 days; and
  - (ii) it is necessary to detain the person to preserve evidence in the Territory or elsewhere of, or relating to, the terrorist act, and

- (iii) detaining the person for the period for which the person is to be detained under the order is reasonably necessary for the purpose of preserving any such evidence.

(2) A terrorist act mentioned in subsection (1)(a) must be imminent and, in any event, be expected to occur at some time in the next 14 days.

(3) The Judge may refuse to make a preventative detention order unless the applicant gives the Judge any further information the Judge requests concerning the grounds on which the order is sought.

(4) If the application is made under section 21F(4):

- (a) an order made under this section must be sent to the applicant by fax, email or other electronic communication; or
- (b) the applicant must complete a form of a preventative detention order as directed by the Judge.

(5) The copy of the original order sent, or the form of the order completed, under subsection (4) has the same force and effect as the original order.

21H. Nature and content of preventative detention order

(1) A preventative detention order is an order that the person in relation to whom it is made may be:

- (a) taken into custody (unless the person is already being detained under a preventative detention order, or an order for the person's detention made under a corresponding law, that is in force or was in force immediately before the making of the new order); and
- (b) detained during the period that:
  - (i) starts when the person is first taken into custody or detained under the order (the "start"); and
  - (ii) ends a specified period after the start.

(2) A preventative detention order must be in writing.

(3) A preventative detention order must specify:

- (a) the name of the person in relation to whom it is made; and
- (b) the period during which the person may be detained under the order; and
- (c) the date on which, and the time at which, the order is made; and

- (d) the date and time after which the person may not be taken into custody under the order; and
- (e) a summary of the grounds on which the order is made.

(4) To avoid doubt, subsection (3)(e) does not require information to be included in the summary if the disclosure of the information is likely to prejudice national security.

- (5) If the person in relation to whom the order is made is:
  - (a) under 18 years of age; or
  - (b) incapable of managing his or her affairs, the order may specify a period of longer than 2 hours as the period the person is entitled under section 21ZL(2) to have contact with another person each day.

21J. Director of Correctional Services to be given copy of preventative detention order if person detained in prison

If the person in relation to whom a preventative detention order is made is being detained in a prison, the applicant for the order must give a copy of the order to the Director of Correctional Services.

21K. Maximum period of detention

(1) The maximum period for which a person may be detained under a preventative detention order is 14 days less any period the person is actually detained under a preventative detention order, or an order for the person's detention made under a corresponding law against the person, in relation to the same terrorist act.

(2) Despite subsection (1), the maximum period for which a person may be detained under a preventative detention order made on the basis of preserving evidence of, or relating to, a terrorist act that has occurred is not reduced by any period for which the person is detained under a preventative detention order, or an order for the person's detention under a corresponding law, made on the basis of preventing a terrorist act.

21L. When order starts and ceases to have effect

- (1) A preventative detention order in relation to a person starts to have effect:
  - (a) if the order so provides, on an order for the person's detention made under a corresponding law ceasing to have effect; or
  - (b) otherwise, when it is made.

(2) A preventative detention order in relation to a person under which the person is required to be taken into custody ceases to have effect at the end of the period of 48 hours after the order is made if the person has not been taken into custody under the order within that period.

(3) If a preventative detention order does not cease to have effect under subsection (2), it ceases to have effect when whichever of the following first occurs:

- (a) the period during which the person may be detained under the order ends;
- (b) the order is revoked under section 21P, 21S or 21T.

21M. No preventative detention order in relation to person under 16

(1) A preventative detention order cannot be applied for, or made, in relation to a person who is under 16 years of age.

(2) If:

- (a) a person is being detained under a preventative detention order (or a purported preventative detention order); and
- (b) the police officer who is detaining the person is satisfied on reasonable grounds the person is under 16 years of age, the officer must release the person, as soon as practicable, from detention under the order.

21N. Multiple preventative detention orders

(1) More than one preventative detention order may be made in relation to the same terrorist act (whether or not against the same person).

(2) A preventative detention order can be made against a person to take effect on the expiration of detention under another preventative detention order made against the person or an order for the person's detention made under a corresponding law.

Note for section 21N

This Division does not authorise the extension of the period of an order. However, an eligible Judge may make further orders for the same terrorist act as long as the maximum period of detention under section 21K is not exceeded in relation to the total period of the orders.

21P. Review of preventative detention order by Supreme Court

(1) As soon as practicable after a person (the "subject") is first taken into custody, or is first in detention, under a preventative detention order, an authorised police officer must apply to the Supreme Court for a review of the order.

(2) The Court in the review proceeding must not be constituted by the eligible Judge who made the preventative detention order.

(3) In the review proceeding:

(a) the subject is entitled to appear and give evidence, call witnesses, examine and cross-examine witnesses, adduce material and make submissions; but

(b) the subject's absence does not prevent the Court from deciding the application.

(4) In deciding the review, the Court may, by order:

(a) confirm the preventative detention order; or

(b) confirm the preventative detention order with the variation of the period specified in the order as the period during which the subject may be detained under it; or

(c) give directions about the making of further preventative detention orders in relation to the subject; or

(d) if not satisfied as mentioned in section 21G(1):

(i) revoke the preventative detention order and release the subject from detention; or

(ii) if the subject has been released from detention – declare the preventative detention order to have been void from its making.

(5) Subject to any direction made by the Court in the proceeding for the review of the preventative detention order, the police officer detaining the subject may exercise powers and perform functions under this Part to release the subject from detention during the course of the proceeding.

21Q. Prohibited contact order – person in relation to whom preventative detention order being sought

(1) A police officer who applies to an eligible Judge for a preventative detention order in relation to a person may also apply to the Judge for a prohibited contact order under this section in relation to the person's detention under the preventative detention order.

(2) The application must:

- (a) be made by affidavit; and
- (b) specify:
  - (i) the terms of the order sought; and
  - (ii) the facts and other grounds on which the applicant considers the order should be made.

(3) However, an application for a prohibited contact order that is required urgently may be made by telephone, fax, email or other electronic communication.

- (4) If the Judge:
  - (a) makes the preventative detention order; and
  - (b) is satisfied on reasonable grounds that making the prohibited contact order will assist in achieving the purpose of the preventative detention order, the Judge may make a prohibited contact order under this section that the person is not, while being detained under the preventative detention order, to contact another person specified in the prohibited contact order.

- (5) The prohibited contact order must be in writing.
- (6) If the application is made under subsection (3):
  - (a) the order must be sent to the applicant by fax, email or other electronic communication; or
  - (b) the applicant must complete a form of a prohibited contact order as directed by the Judge.

(7) The copy of the original order sent, or the form of the order completed, under subsection (6) has the same force and effect as the original order.

(8) The Judge may refuse to make a prohibited contact order unless the applicant gives the Judge any further information the Judge requests concerning the facts and other grounds on which the order is sought.

21R. Prohibited contact order – person in relation to whom preventative detention order in force

(1) If a preventative detention order is in force in relation to a person (the "subject"), an authorised police officer may apply to an eligible Judge for a prohibited contact order under this section in relation to the subject's detention under the preventative detention order.

- (2) The application must:
  - (a) be made by affidavit; and
  - (b) specify:
    - (i) the terms of the order sought; and
    - (ii) the facts and other grounds on which the applicant considers the order should be made.

(3) However, an application for a prohibited contact order that is required urgently may be made by telephone, fax, email or other electronic communication.

(4) If the Judge is satisfied on reasonable grounds that making the prohibited contact order will assist in achieving the purpose for which the preventative detention order was made, the Judge may make a prohibited contact order under this section that the person is not, while being detained under the preventative detention order, to contact another person specified in the prohibited contact order.

- (5) The prohibited contact order must be in writing.
- (6) If the application is made under subsection (3):
  - (a) the order must be sent to the applicant by fax, email or other electronic communication; or
  - (b) the applicant must complete a form of a prohibited contact order as directed by the Judge.

(7) The copy of the original order sent, or the form of the order completed, under subsection (6) has the same force and effect as the original order.

(1) A person in relation to whom a preventative detention order is in force (the "subject") may apply to the Supreme Court for:

- (a) if the order is a confirmed preventative detention order – the revocation or variation of the order; or
- (b) the revocation or variation of any prohibited contact order in force in relation to the subject's detention under the preventative detention order.

(2) If the Court is satisfied, because of new facts or circumstances that have arisen since the Court reviewed the making of the preventative detention order, it is appropriate that the order be revoked or varied, the Court must, by order, revoke or vary the order.

(3) If the subject is being detained in a prison and the preventative detention order is revoked or varied under subsection (2), the police officer who is detaining the subject under the order must give a copy of the order made under the subsection to the Director of Correctional Services as soon as practicable after it is made.

- (4) If:
  - (a) a prohibited contact order is in force in relation to the subject's detention under a preventative detention order; and
  - (b) either of the following apply:
    - (i) if the order is a confirmed preventative detention order – the Court is satisfied, because of new facts or circumstances that have arisen since the making of the prohibited contact order, it is appropriate that the prohibited contact order be revoked or varied;
    - (ii) otherwise – the Court is satisfied it is appropriate that the prohibited contact order be revoked or varied, the Court must, by order, revoke or vary the prohibited contact order.

(5) If the subject is being detained in a prison and a prohibited contact order in force in relation to the subject is revoked or varied under subsection (4), the police officer who is detaining the subject under the preventative detention order must give a copy of the order made under the subsection to the Director of Correctional Services as soon as practicable after it is made.

the Court must, by order, revoke or vary the order.

(4) If the person in relation to whom a preventative detention order is in force is being detained in a prison and the order is revoked or varied under subsection (3), the applicant for the revocation or variation must give a copy of the order made under the subsection to the Director of Correctional Services as soon as practicable after it is made.

- (5) If:
  - (a) a prohibited contact order is in force in relation to a person's detention under a preventative detention order; and
  - (b) the nominated police officer in relation to the preventative detention order is satisfied, because of new facts or circumstances that have arisen since the making of the prohibited contact order, it is appropriate that the prohibited contact order be revoked or varied (including that the grounds on which the order was made have ceased to exist),

(4) The Court may, in relation to the proceeding, make the orders relating to the suppression of publication of the whole or any part of the proceeding or of the evidence given in the proceeding, that in its opinion, are necessary to secure the object of this Part.

(5) Despite subsection (4), the Court must, by order, suppress publication of information likely to prejudice national security.

(6) A person must not disclose information knowing the disclosure contravenes an order under subsection (4) or (5).

Penalty: Imprisonment for 5 years.

Division 3 – Carrying out preventative detention orders

21V. Power to detain person under preventative detention order

(1) While a preventative detention order is in force in relation to a person:

- (a) any police officer may take the person into custody; and
- (b) any police officer may detain the person.

(2) A police officer has, for the purpose of taking a person into custody under a preventative detention order or preventing the person escaping from that custody, the same powers and functions as the officer would have if the officer were taking the person into custody in relation to the commission of an offence or preventing the person escaping from that custody.

(3) Subsection (2) does not apply to the extent to which particular powers and functions are provided for in this Part.

21W. Senior police officer with functions under preventative detention order

If:

- (a) a number of police officers are detaining, or involved in the detention of, a person under a preventative detention order at a particular time; and the function is imposed at that time on the most senior of those officers.

21X. Nominated police officer to oversee order

(1) If a preventative detention order is made in relation to a person, a senior police officer must nominate a police officer of or above the rank of superintendent to oversee the exercise of functions under or in relation to the order.

(2) The nominated police officer must be someone who was not involved in the making of the application for the preventative detention order.

- (5) The matters are:
  - (a) the exercise of powers under, and the performance of duties in relation to, the preventative detention order; and
  - (b) without limiting paragraph (a), compliance with section 21T in relation to the preventative detention order; and
  - (c) the person's treatment in relation to the person's detention under the preventative detention order.

21Y. Endorsement of order with date and time person taken into custody

- (a) a preventative detention order is in force in relation to a person; and
- (b) a police officer believes on reasonable grounds the person is on any premises or in or on any vehicle, the officer may enter the premises or vehicle at any time of the day or night for the purpose of searching the premises or vehicle for the person or taking the person into custody.

21ZB. Release of person from preventative detention

(1) The police officer who is detaining a person under a preventative detention order may release the person from detention under the order.

Notes for subsection (1)

1. A person may be released, for example, so that the person may be arrested and otherwise dealt with for a suspected offence. In these circumstances, Part VII of the Police Administration Act applies.
2. Also, a person for whom a warrant under section 34D of the Australian Security Intelligence Organisation Act 1979 (Cth) is in force may be released so that the person may be dealt with under the warrant.

(2) The police officer who releases the person from detention under the preventative detention order must give the person a written statement that the person is being released from that detention.

- (3) The statement must be signed by the police officer.
- (4) To avoid doubt, a person may be taken to have been released from detention under a preventative detention order even if:
  - (a) the person is informed that he or she is being released from detention under the order; and
  - (b) the person is taken into custody on some other basis immediately after the person is informed that he or she is being released from detention under the order.
- (5) To avoid doubt, a person is taken not to be detained under a preventative detention order during a period during which the person is released from detention under the order.

Note for subsection (5)

During this period, the provisions of this Part that apply to a person who is being detained under a preventative detention order (for example, the provisions dealing with the people the person may contact) do not apply to the person.

- (6) To avoid doubt:
  - (a) the release of a person under subsection (1) from detention under the preventative detention order does not extend the period for which the order remains in force; and
  - (b) a person released under subsection (1) from detention under a preventative detention order may again be taken into custody and detained under the order at any time while the order remains in force in relation to the person.

21ZC. Arrangement for detainee to be held in prison

- (1) A police officer who is detaining a person (the "detainee") under a preventative detention order may arrange, with the Director of Correctional Services, for the detainee to be detained under the order at a prison.
- (2) If an arrangement is made under subsection (1):
  - (a) the police officer making the arrangement must give the person in charge of the prison written notice of the arrangement, a copy of the preventative detention order and any prohibited contact order in force in relation to the detainee's detention; and
  - (b) the preventative detention order is taken to authorise the person in charge of the prison to detain the detainee at the prison while the order is in force in relation to the detainee; and

(c) section 21ZG applies in relation to the detainee's detention under the preventative detention order at the prison as if:

- (i) the person in charge of that prison; or
- (ii) any other person involved in the detainee's detention at that prison, were a person exercising authority under the order or implementing or enforcing the order; and

(d) the officer who made the arrangement (or another police officer designated by a senior police officer) is taken, while the detainee is detained at the prison, to be the police officer detaining the detainee for this Part; and

(e) a police officer may, for exercising functions under the order, enter at any time the prison and visit the detainee in the prison.

(3) A regulation may exclude the detainee from the application of any of the provisions of, or provisions made under, the Prisons (Correctional Services) Act, Juvenile Justice Act or Youth Justice Act.

(4) An arrangement under subsection (1) does not prevent the detainee being returned to the custody of a police officer.

(5) Subsections (6) and (7) apply if the detainee is under 18 years of age.

(6) A reference in this section to a prison is, in relation to the detainee, a reference to a detention centre within the meaning of the Juvenile Justice Act or Youth Justice Act and the reference to the Director of Correctional Services is a reference to the superintendent of the centre.

(7) During any period the detainee is not detained under an arrangement in force under this section, a police officer must not detain the detainee together with persons who are 18 years or older unless the nominated police officer considers there are exceptional circumstances and approves that detention.

    - (iii) the person's treatment in relation to the person's detention under the preventative detention order; and
