139 Object of redistribution

The object of a redistribution is to ensure that, at the time of the next general election, the number of electors in each proposed division is as near to equal as practicable.

139A Principles of redistribution

To satisfy the object of redistribution, the Redistribution Committee must have regard to the following principles:

- (a) the physical area of a division containing rural and remote areas should be as small as practicable;
- (b) the demographic characteristics of a division should be as uniform as practicable;
- (c) the geographic features of a division should be as uniform as practicable;
- (d) each identifiable community should be included in only one division if practicable;
- (e) subject to paragraphs (a) to (d), changes to existing divisions should minimise the number of electors being transferred from one division to another.

139B Naming of division during redistribution

- (1) The name of a division must not be changed by a redistribution unless the existing name is no longer appropriate.
- (2) If a new name is proposed for a division, the use of locality names should be avoided.

- (2) The calculation must be done as soon as practicable:
 - (a) after the establishment of the Redistribution Committee; and
 - (b) after the expiry of the 30-day period mentioned in section 145(b).
- (3) The Redistribution Committee may calculate the quota at any other time during the redistribution process if the Committee is of the opinion that calculating the quota would:
 - (a) improve the accuracy of the redistribution; and
 - (b) achieve the object in section 139.

145A Preparing second proposed redistribution

- (3) The second proposed redistribution must include proposed names for the proposed divisions.

145B Inviting objections to second proposed redistribution

- (1) If a second proposed redistribution would result in the sum of the following being greater than 15% of the total number of electors in a division at the time the quota is calculated under section 140B(2)(b), the Redistribution Committee must invite objections to the second proposed redistribution:
 - (a) the number of electors added to the division by the second proposed redistribution as compared to the first proposed redistribution; and
 - (b) the number of electors removed from the division by the second proposed redistribution as compared to the first proposed redistribution.
- (2) Despite subsection (1), the Redistribution Committee is not required to invite objections to the second proposed redistribution if the Redistribution Committee is of the opinion that:
 - (a) holding a second objection period would cause major inconvenience or have other serious consequences, such as causing a delay to a scheduled general election; or
 - (b) the second proposed redistribution is the only feasible option because there has been a natural disaster or another event causing extraordinary demographic movement.

Note for subsection (2)(a)

A delay to the finalisation of the redistribution process is not of itself a major inconvenience or serious consequence.

- (3) If, in the opinion of the Redistribution Committee, a second proposed redistribution involves a significant change in a matter to which the Redistribution Committee must give consideration under section 140(2)(a), (c), (e), (f) or (g), the Redistribution Committee may invite objections to the second proposed redistribution.
- (4) If the Redistribution Committee invites objections to a second proposed redistribution under subsection (1) or (3), the Redistribution Committee must:
- (a) make available, for public inspection, without fee, a map or number of maps together showing the names and boundaries of all proposed divisions; and
 - (b) publish a notice in accordance with section 137:
 - (i) advising of the availability for inspection of the map or maps mentioned in paragraph (a); and
 - (ii) stating that any objection on the second proposed redistribution must be made in writing to the Redistribution Committee within 14 days after the notice is published in the Gazette.
